Noodled Ham.

To make the noodles beat an egg very light with a saltspoonful of salt and add as much flour as will be required to make a stiff dough. As eggs vary in size, the exact amount of flour cannot be given. Work smooth, roll out very thin and cut in narrow strips; roll these between the hands until round, like macaroni, then cut in pieces an inch or two in length. Lay on a board near the fire to dry. Then put two cups of them into a steppan and pour over them enough boiling water to cover. Let them boil ten minutes. Chop enough cold boiled ham to make a large cupful. The broken bits and trimmings of boiled ham are used up in this way. Butter a baking dish, put in a layer of drained noodles, then more ham, more noodles, and so on until the dish is full, having the top layer of noodles. Beat two eggs, add a cup of thin cream or rich milk, and pour over the top. Cover with a thin layer of buttered crumbs and make a delicate sauce. Serve from same dish.

White Loaf Cake.

Cut bits of whole wheat bread into dice. Use a half cup of any fruit that may have been left over—prunes, raisins, chopped dates or candied fruit. Grease an ordinary melon mold. Put a layer of bread in the bottom, then a layer of the fruit and so continue until you have the mold filled. Beat two eggs without separating with four tablespoons sugar; add a pint of milk. Pour this carefully over the bread; let it stand for ten minutes. Then put the mold in the milk and steam or boil continuously for one hour. Serve with lemon or orange sauce.

Turkish Soup.

Five cups of brown soup stock, one-quarter cup of rice, one and one-half of stewed and strained tomatoes, bit of bay leaf, two slices of onion, ten peppercorns, one-quarter teaspoonful of butter, one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour. Cook rice in brown stock until soft. Cook bay leaf, onion, peppercorns and celery salt with tomatoes for thirty minutes. Combine mixtures, rub through a sieve and bind with butter and flour cooked together. Season with salt and pepper if needed.

Stuffed Eggs.

Put six eggs into cold water, boil for fifteen minutes, put them into cold water, which keeps the whites of eggs a good color; cut them in halves lengthways and take out the yolks, which pound with one teaspoonful of chopped cold meat, add one tablespoonful of chopped parsley, salt, pepper and red pepper to taste, and one tablespoonful of melted butter. Mix all well together, take a small piece, fill the hollow of the white of egg with this; join the other half to it. When all are filled rub over the outside with flour, brush over with beaten egg, roll in the bread crumbs. Fry a golden color in plenty of smoking-hot fat. Decorate with parsley and serve very hot.

Cheap Fruit Cake.

This may be made in a loaf or in small cakes. One cup of butter, one cup of sugar, one cup of molasses, one cup of milk, one cup of raisins, one cup currants, one well beaten egg, three teaspoonfuls of spices and four cups of flour with a teaspoonful of salt. Dissolve the soda in the molasses and mix the fruit in the flour. One-half of this recipe will answer for a small family.

Chocolate Potato Candy.

Take one medium sized potato. When well done, scoop out the inside and put it in a basin, then work in confectioner's sugar until it is creamy. It will take about one pound, depending on the size of the potato. Make into neat squares and dip in unsweetened chocolate, which has been melted in a small saucepan. Place an English walnut nut on top of each square and put on waxed or buttered paper to cool.
